Overview

Is rooftop solar a good investment?

Rooftop solar has increasingly become an option for many households across the country. Many areas offer attractive Renewable Energy Credits (RECs) that, when coupled with federal and local incentives, can make rooftop solar an attractive financial choice that is also good for the environment.

Who has solar panels on his rooftop?

Salas has solar panels on his rooftop, which he got through a nonprofit program designed for low-income households. Salas, an ironworker, didn't pay anything for the panels — except for the Peruvian food his wife made for the workers who installed the panels.

Can EPA funding help build trust in solar?

The EPA funding will help local governments and communities create lists of reputable solar actors who can use the EPA funding and help build trust in solar, Widawsky says. As for Salas, he recently spoke with a neighbor about getting solar panels.

How does rooftop solar work?

The Trump campaign did not respond to a request for comment. The way rooftop solar works, the solar energy you create can power your own home's electricity needs, and then any extra power you make goes back to the grid for a credit with your utility.

How do I cover the cost of going solar?

Follow these three basic steps to help cover the cost of going solar. While on-site solar delivers low-cost power and energy bill savings, there are upfront installation costs to plan for. Use incentives, tax credits, and low-interest financing to make your solar project more affordable.

Should I replace my roof before installing solar panels?

If your roof needs renovations, it makes sense to replace it before installing solar panels to avoid having to remove and reinstall the panels at a later date. Make your roofing company aware that you will be installing solar panels and ask them if they will come back after they are installed to ensure the panels have not damaged the roof.
